THE DAILY INTERVIEW

Missi Jay

Missi Jay has always loved to draw. She's always wanted to be an artist, "except for one time in college when I wanted to do something else, but I came right back to art," she jokes. Then, 22 years ago, Missi started her company, Gigglebox Design. Her favorite part of being an artist is coming up with ideas and drawing things that make people smile. "I love to draw people, but not realistic, and flowers and unicorns," she says. She says her least favorite part of art is the business-y part. "I like to get down to the business... of drawing."

Missi has illustrated 6 printed books, several book cover designs, and has designed and drawn in several school textbooks. Missi's overall goal is to make kids happy, plus she has a coloring/activity book on the way!

Missi's final advice for everyone is that "there is no wrong way to do art. Art is therapeutic and beautiful. A kid is like, 'I can't draw a stick figure,' but it doesn't matter."
