THE DAILY INTERVIEW

Larry Wilson

Larry Wilson is retired now, but he used to have a very awesome, interesting job: a charter fishing captain! "I grew up in the Rio Grande, and I went fishing all the time in the saltwater. I have saltwater running through my veins!" he jokes. "When I got laid off from my job in the 90's, I thought about what I could do, what I would enjoy doing." The answer? Fishing!! Larry wanted to be a charter captain, but realized he had to have a license for it. "I went on a 54-hour class with the U.S. Coast Guard, got a license, and made a website." Larry's website was called Arroyo Colorado Charters. "We already had a vacation house there, so I would pick people up at the airport, take them fishing, and then they would stay at the house," he says. "I wanted to make them happy as much as fishing had made me happy." Of course, not all of being a fishing captain+airbnb was great. "To quote a book, 'it was the best of times, it was the worst of times,'" says Larry. He had to cook the guests' food, clean the house, pick them up and take them back to the airport, take them on his boat, and clean their fish. "I'm still a licensed captain, though, and it was all fun!"

DAD JOKE OF THE DAY

How do you throw a party in an airplane?

You wing it.
